By Telegraph to The Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 25.—(By the Associated Press.) For the first time since he has been acknowledged the head of the pugilistic fraternity of the world, James J. Corbett defended with success the title which he won by defeating the former champion, John L. Sullivan. Pitted against the boasted exponent of the manly art in England, America's brawny representative has proved his fitness for the place of honor which his muscles won for him, and the tail of the British lion has been severely stepped upon. Charles Mitchell is groveling in the dust of defeat, heaping imprecations upon his ill-luck and mingling with them vain regrets of his inability to whip his victor. The British pugilist will remember with poignant grief the time and place of his first defeat.

Mitchell made a gallant battle—that much is conceded by all who witnessed the encounter—and when he went down for the last time, after his utmost to retrieve the laurel wreath which had been his through life, there were but few among the spectators who grudging him sympathy, and fewer still who failed to commend him for his effort to win.

It all happened out on the sand dunes of East Jacksonville, where a white-washed fence surrounds an inclosure whose circumference is half a mile. Inside a bar-like roof covers the ring in which the battle was fought. From its side and upward sloped benches for spectators, above whose heads was the sky alone.

Two miles from the city is this place whose sandy roads, hub-deep in oak shrubs and stunted pines, surrounded the grounds. The gathering of the clans, white, black and mixed, began early in the day. Hundreds waded out through the sand and mud without tickets, but desiring to be near the scene of the conflict. Every wheeled affair in the city was pressed into service to carry those who had tickets, but the facilities were inadequate and there was a train of toiling pedestrians from early morning until the fight was on. Couriers, mounted on Texan ponies, were ready at hand to carry the news from the ring to the telegraph wires, two miles away.

When the big dunes were thrown open there was a rush of spectators. The capacity of the amphitheater is 8000 and while there were some empty spots here and there the crowds seemed well-nigh large enough for the space.

By and by came evidences of the approach of the principals in the contest. First came a faint cry away down the sandy road toward the city, and so passed on to the arena. The gladiators came not far apart and alighted from their carriages nearly simultaneously, both looking to be in fine trim and confident.

THE MEN'S ANIMOSITY.

Those who know Corbett well had been told by him that it was not his intention, even should he have the opportunity, to finish the fight at once. The relations which have existed between the men made him desirous of punishing the Englishman soundly, and he had given it out that, even with the chance of losing the fight by an accidental blow, he would not accept an early opening for a knock-out, saying: "I will prolong this fight. I must punish that fellow. I will cut him if I can into threads and shoostrings. Finally, when I have got all through with him for my money, then I will win the purpose." This purpose was in Corbett's heart as he faced the Englishman and the progress of the fight demonstrated that he pursued this plan to some extent.

What Mitchell thought as he faced the Western giant may never be known. Doubtless his governing thought was to win for glory. The telling punishment to which the British pugilist was subjected told heavily on him. At the outset his every action indicated the watchfulness which characterized his pugilistic history. Mingled with this, however, was the evidence of that bitter hatred which he bore toward his tall opponent. This bitterness added strength to his every blow but did not abate his carefulness and cunning. It rather intensified them.

As the fight wore on and the American showed himself master of the Englishman, evidences of something akin to despair began to be noticeable in his manner. He called to his aid his very best powers as a ring general and tried to stave off the inevitable. The blows of his opponent, however, were too heavy and too scientifically directed to be withstood; the Englishman's rallies became feebler and feebler as blow after blow was rained on him, and though he stood the punishment with grim, bull-dog determination neither human nor brute nature could withstand the stunning effect of the punishment which he received, and he sank to the ground a defeated man. There was a look on his face of sorrowful regret, mingled with hatred, fierce and malignant, such as seldom is seen on the face of a man and finally, after an unsuccessful struggle to renew the fight, forcing himself to a half-erect position, he toppled over and fell headlong into the arena while a tremendous shout of exultation rose from the throats of Corbett's friends, such as was never before heard in this quaint, quiet town.

POPULAR ENTHUSIASM.

The streets of the city tonight are thronged with people, strangers and residents alike, all cheering the triumph of America over England. Patriotism has broken loose in the old Florida town. A sign and phantoms and tallies and hacks race backward and forward to the city, two miles away, ladies and children put their heads out of windows and came out on the porches of the pretty residences and waved their handkerchiefs in happiness over the result.

The hotels are jammed with people. Brass bands on the streets are loudly blowing for the victory of Billy Brady's boy. The sports are all arranging to follow the fighters out of the State, and the trains tomorrow will carry the greater portion of the men who have come from all parts of the country, risking their money and spending their time to see the fight.

THE EVENT.

Betting Was Largely in Corbett's Favor—Sullivanmen Were There.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 25.—(By the Associated Press.) Little man, as he is called, early in the day of the sports remained up all night. Betting this morning was strong in Corbett's favor, the general impression being that the Englishman would stand no show against his challenger and party, however, seemed.

Mitchell arose at 7 o'clock, hungry for breakfast. He went through short, light exercise, then partook of mutton chops, steak, potatoes and toast. He then rested till it was time to leave for the ring side. He expressed himself as having a good chance to win, and declared he would do so if he could.

Although orders were received last night for the dismissal of the troops, the adjutant-general decided to continue them under orders until after Judge Call announced his final decision this morning. It was not until noon when instructions were given to break camp and a majority of the soldiers left for their homes at once, though some went to see the fight. The weather, which was fair during the early morning, changed later to a heavy downpour of rain, flooding the streets, though with indications for a pleasant afternoon.

Jack Dempsey, who was with Corbett in the ring, informed the club this morning that unless the posts around the ring were padded, as the club had agreed to do, Corbett would not enter the ring. It was a matter of some moment to be braced and more solid and the ropes drawn taut.

Jim Hall, who went to inspect the arena on behalf of Mitchell, heartily seconded the suggestions of Dempsey, saying that his principal would not appear unless the club were attended to. This combined kick almost put the club into a fit and caused it to get on what passed for a "move" in this leisurely country.

Corbett and his attendants slipped into the city at 10 o'clock, and the first of the crowd were seen on their feet. They were the heroes of the hour. Mitchell appeared in the pink of condition and there was a better disposition to back him, though $30 to $150 were the best terms offered.

The gates were thrown open at noon and the crowd came in a rush. A good many people getting in without a good seat. Meantime men were busy padding the ring and sprinkling rosin on the floor.

While waiting for the fighters to appear the crowd was surprised by the appearance of a large squad of militia outside the gate, but they were of no use and it soon became apparent that their intentions were not hostile. Then a carriage drove up and the excitement was at a fever heat when Corbett appeared. The spectators greeted him with tumultuous applause as he stepped on to the ring.

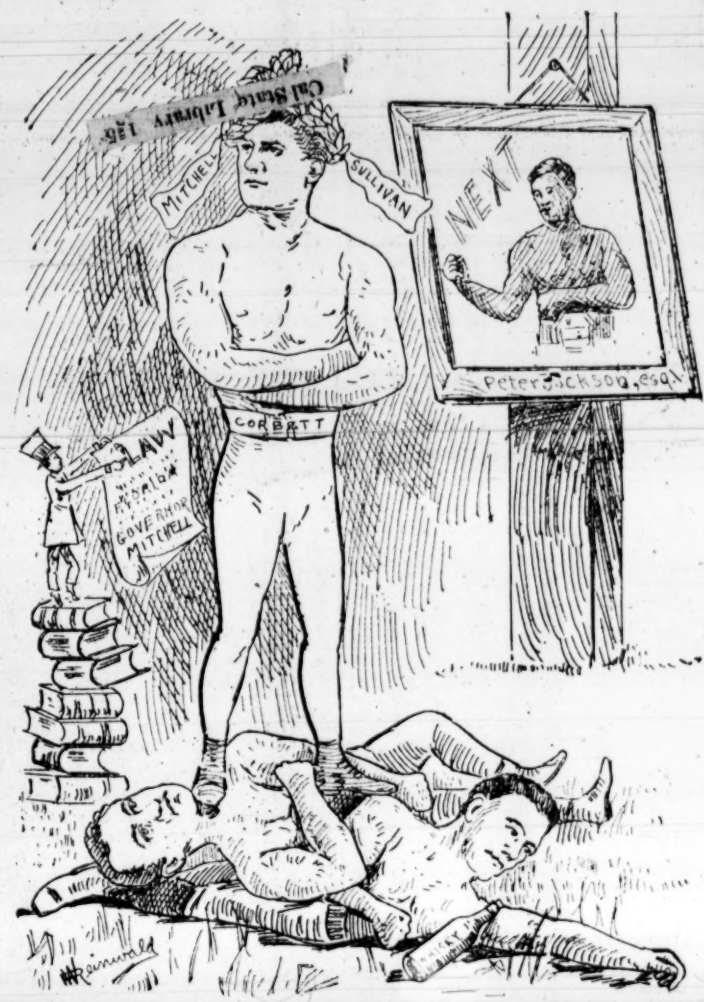

Mitchell next appeared. His reception was almost equal to Corbett's. Then came Referee Kelly, who shook hands with the fighters, called them to the center and instructed them as to their conduct during the fight. The seconds then appeared, Jim Hall, "Pony" Moore, Tom Allen and Steve O'Donnell for Mitchell, with "Bat" Masterson as timekeeper. Corbett's seconds were John Donaldson, Billy Delaney, Jack Dempsey, and William McMillan. The timekeeper for Corbett was Ted Foley, and the timekeeper for the club was "Snapper" Garrison.

Referee Kelly and the police examined the gloves. Time was called at 1:45.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

It was 2:08 p.m., when the arrival of the champion in the ring was announced. Hats and umbrellas were waved high up to the point where most of the crowd, walked through the aisles. As Mitchell climbed into the ring at 2:12 p.m. Corbett's face was a study. He eyed Mitchell with interest and a sardonic grin played over his face, which said as plainly as words, "I have you now." Mitchell was impassive, neither smiling nor saying anything.

When Corbett threw aside his robe he appeared clad in nothing but a red, white and black trunk. He wore black shoes and dark-brown gloves. Mitchell wore white gloves, black shoes and trunk, and his right wrist was bandaged. Corbett refused to shake hands and time was called at 2:20.

Round 1.—Corbett, at the call of time, sprang to the center of the ring, while his man was just emerging from his corner. Corbett fought with the same style of guard employed so successfully in his combat with Sullivan. Mitchell's guard was low, with the left hand tending downward and Corbett's right went in over the heart. The Englishman was forced to the ropes by feints and for a full minute the men stood or pranced, feinting and fiddling about. Mitchell finally shot out his left for the body, falling short in the effort and Corbett answered to counter, unsuccessfully. They came together in a clinch, Corbett at once anticipating his opponent's move by putting the heel of his opened glove up against Mitchell's nose. Mitchell then, after a couple of efforts, got in with his left on the stomach and Corbett countered with his right on the ear and brought color to the Briton's face. Mitchell twice led for Corbett's ribs, landing both times, but was short in each instance. Corbett continued nursing his man around the side of the ring, and the referee would not let the fight go on. Corbett landed lightly with two body blows, one to the short ribs and the other to the chest, both light and landing without any superficial traces. Mitchell again sent out his left, but Corbett dodged and reached for the head. Mitchell avoided it by his clever and famous duck. Just before time was called he led for Corbett's face, landing lightly as the latter was going away from it, and then following it up he repeated the blow. England to Take Action in Egypt—An African Explorer Dead—Bonilla to Be Established in Honduras—Valiant's Appeal is Rejected.

By Telegram to The Times.
BARCELONA, Jan. 25.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) A dynamite explosion took place today in the harbor-works. Two persons were killed and several injured. The outrage is attributed to Anarchists.

As the civil Governor was entering his carriage at the entrance to the Prefecture, a workman fired a pistol at his head and wounded the Governor in the face. The Governor's secretary promptly seized the assailant, "to loudly proclaimed himself an Anarchist." He had an accomplice in the attempt at murder, but the latter escaped. The bullet lodged in the upper part of the left jaw of the Governor. The assailant was named Morul. He repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed the act was done out of revenge for the part which the Governor took in the prosecution of Pellaz.

Morul admits that he lay in wait for an hour for the Governor on the day previous.

hand fell limply to his side, the right falling under the body in the descent. The body reached the floor face downward and lay there as lifeless as that of a man who had been killed by a bullet. There was one chance in a thousand that Mitchell would recover inside the prescribed ten seconds. His face turned slightly to the right and from mouth and nostrils oozed blood in tiny streams. Kelly had counted ten seconds slowly enough, and he was not a man to be deceived. There was much of mercy. When time had finally run its limit, Kelly, with a wave of the hand toward Corbett's corner, shouted: "Corbett wins, at the same time beckoning the seconds of Mitchell to their man."

The signal was given. Moore, Jim Hall and Steve O'Donnell stooped down over Mitchell, O'Donnell applying a bottle of ammonia to the nostrils of the Englishman. He lay there, his eyes closed, and the three picked up the limp body and slowly carried it to a corner. Here the bottle was again put to Mitchell's nostrils. He lay there, his eyes closed, and the three picked up the limp body and slowly carried it to a corner.

Moore, Mitchell made no response verbally, but he was thinking of the "spilled milk" story. His long English bathing-gown was forced over his arms and he was slowly led from the ring to the dressing-room. Corbett meantime was being besieged by a crowd of friends, who fairly wrung his arms. His first act after the fight had been won and lost was to throw his still-gloved hands about the waist of his little manager and the two indulged in a friendly embrace. Corbett gave him a kiss. Kelly shook Corbett by the hand, floussed a $200.00 roll of money into his hand, and the two longed to him and the manager. Corbett, before whom hordes of people were being brought in behalf of the pugilists, Mitchell now looked none the worse for his hard fighting. He sat in the Sheriff's office to await the arrival of the Judge. The next day was caused by Judge. Lamar on charges of prize-fighting by previous appointment.

THE AMENDE HONORABLE.
While Corbett and Mitchell were in the courtroom together, and through the efforts of Joe Vendig, the long-remembered antagonist of the two men toward each other was buried. Though they had not exchanged the usual handshake in the ring, either before or after the fight, they cordially shook hands in the courtroom.

Mitchell made a little speech in which he acknowledged having uttered many things which he regretted, but said he regretted them because he was glad that he had been whipped by a champion's hand. There was a general applause in the room over the reconciliation.

It was thought here that the court proceedings will be more than forthcoming. Corbett and Mitchell were placed under $5000 bonds and the remainder of the fight was to appear tomorrow in the Criminal Court before Judge Phillips.

IN JUDGE CALL'S COURT.
The motion to dissolve the injunction restraining the Sheriff from interfering in the contest came up this morning before Judge Call, and the Attorney-General submitted a paper containing practically the same points as set out yesterday.

The attorneys for the club asked time to plead and file affidavits to the court adjourned, pending completion of this work. Subsequently the case was dismissed.

Much interest was manifested in sporting circles over the event.

Much interest was manifested in sporting circles over the event. In the beginning, crawling out of the close quarters into which the superior size, reach and weight of his opponent forced him, but there was no faltering in Corbett's plan of campaign, and he slowly surrounded the Briton, raining in upon his head and sides a shower of savage punches. The Englishman, Mitchell's face as he tried vainly to elude his agile pursuer, and finally, when Corbett closed with him in an effort to corner him, he tested the area no longer possible for him to escape the battery of the American. He pluckily tried, and failed, to clinch, but Corbett finally beat him off, and with a sharp blow on the side of the jaw brought the Englishman on all fours to the ground. The Englishman broke loose in a wild shout of applause.

With the cheers of his friends ringing in his ears, and with the memories of the fight crowding into his mind, Corbett lost his head, and with the agility of a tiger and the anger of a lion sprang toward the pitiable Englishman on his hands and knees, and with a blow of a tiger and the anger of a lion sprang toward the pitiable Englishman on his hands and knees, and with a blow of a tiger and the anger of a lion sprang toward the pitiable Englishman on his hands and knees.

and crushed by frantic friends, all trying to shake hands at once. As soon as the fight was over Corbett had slipped on his trousers again and drawn towels about him, then stepping as lightly as when he entered the ring he made his way slowly back to the kitchen in the yard where he had spent an hour before the fight waiting for Mitchell to come. Mitchell drew an old bath-gown over his shoulders and, aided by his seconds and friends, was led back to his room. Trepanier was then made to get the fighters out of the city. There was a great crowd around the dressing-room until the pugilists were ready to leave, but the majority of the sports rushed back to town as soon as the gong sounded the death-knell of Mitchell's pugilistic hopes.

THE PUGILISTS ARRESTED.
They are Charged With Fighting by Previous Appointment—A Reconciliation.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 25.—(By the Associated Press.) After the close of the fight, just as Corbett's carriage was ready to drive off a deputy sheriff got on top with the driver and the starting and landing was made that the American champion was under arrest. Mitchell did not escape. Sheriff Broward walked over to the Englishman's carriage just before it was ready to start and Mitchell was not. The two men are only technically under arrest. They submitted without resistance and their friends readily came to their assistance and provided for their departure. Mitchell, after being taken to the Everett House by Sheriff Broward, where he was given a bath and a slight rub down, was taken to the Sheriff's private office and a messenger was sent to the Sheriff's office to call, before whom hordes of people were being brought in behalf of the pugilists. Mitchell now looked none the worse for his hard fighting. He sat in the Sheriff's office to await the arrival of the Judge. The next day was caused by Judge. S. A. Ames Seeks Satisfaction in Notes.

The Transaction Concerns Prominent Persons.

The San Bernadino Indictments Quashed—Four Girls Killed in a Snowslide—Meagher Inquest—McNulty's Sentence Commuted—A Banquet.

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 25.—(Special.) The Riverside Banking Company, against before the public as the subject of general comment, brought into prominence this time by a suit instituted by Samuel A. Ames, through his attorney, E. B. Stanton, to recover the sum of $5000 with interest and costs. When the suit was filed, it was a way as to simply to recover upon a promissory note overdue, such as are ordinarily brought, the matter would not create so much interest. But the charges in the complaint are of such a nature as to implicate, at least by inference, several of the parties in the transaction, to show very shady transactions as having taken place in connection with the travels of the notes for which payment is sought. What these transactions were have not been made public, nor are they likely to be until the suit comes to trial. If it ever does, or until other proceedings are begun. The complaint in this case states that, in January, 1891, George E. Otis of Redlands, Superior Judge in San Bernardino county, gave to the Redlands Land Company as many as twenty-seven promissory notes, ten of which were for $1000 each, sixteen for $500 each, and one for $250.81, all made payable at the office of the Riverside Banking Company, with interest at 12 per cent. To secure the notes, the knowledge of the company was given. In September, 1891, the Riverside Banking Company purchased five of the $1000 notes and three of the $500 notes, which in the same month the bank sold to Samuel A. Ames, plaintiff in this suit, the latter being assured by O. T. Dyer, manager of the bank, that the notes were simply secured by mortgages on Redlands property, which the Riverside Banking Company held in its name and would continue to hold in trust for plaintiff. The complaint states further that, in December, 1892, the mortgages were released by the Redlands Land Company without the knowledge of plaintiff, O. T. Dyer having represented to George E. Otis that he could secure the money for him at a lower rate of interest, and a new mortgage could be given, it being agreed that all notes be obtained by Mr. Dyer and canceled. Upon these conditions, and so understanding the situation, a new mortgage was given by Judge and Mrs. Otis to secure $35,354.43, borrowed on a note made payable to the People's Home Savings Bank, given December 23, 1892. Plaintiff alleges that for his share to cancel the notes bought by him he has received nothing.

Plaintiff further alleges that he gave to defendant, on the 26th of June, 1893, the notes held by him, defendant having represented to him that Judge Otis wished to pay the notes and cancel the obligations, and that defendant would collect from Judge Otis the amounts named and due upon the notes and pay the same to plaintiff. Upon delivering the notes plaintiff received from the Riverside Banking Company a receipt for the notes, showing that they were given defendant for collection. The complaint then alleges that the representations made by defendant were false and fraudulent, and known by defendant to be so, and that Judge Otis did not intend to pay for the notes, but that the notes were delivered as canceled notes to Judge Otis. Plaintiff asks judgment for $5000 and costs. If the matter is not settled before reaching trial a spicy time is looked for.

INDICTMENTS QUASHED.

Sheriff Booth, ex-Sheriff Seymour and Liquor Dealer Katz, on Feb. 25.—(Special.) The indictments against Sena or E. C. Seymour, ex-Sheriff of this county; Dr. J. P. Booth, Sheriff, and M. Katz, liquor-dealer, were quashed yesterday in view of the fact that Thursday morning was the time set for these defendants to plead to the charges brought against them by the late grand jury. Against Senator E. C. Seymour there were five indictments for perjury in swearing to accounts rendered while he occupied the office of Sheriff of San Bernardino county. Against Dr. J. P. Booth, the incumbent, there was the same number of indictments for the same offense. M. Katz had several indictments for selling liquor to Indians, and it was in answer to these charges that the three were to plead. When court opened there was a large number of citizens present as the cases are of general interest. Judges Otis and Campbell were sitting in bank. Messrs. Waters, Harris, Rowell and Bledsoe appeared as attorneys for the defendants, and at once moved that the indictments against all three be quashed upon the grounds: First, that the grand jury did not vote upon the indictments, or upon any one of them; second, that it was not a legally-constituted grand jury.

A. J. Downer, a member of the late grand jury, was put upon the stand, and in the course of his testimony it appeared that the ten indictments—five each against Seymour and Booth—were voted upon together and in one motion.

Howard B. Smith, foreman of the late grand jury, when upon the stand, testified that when the motion was made and carried finding the indictments, there were but eighteen members of the grand jury present. Also that when a motion was made to reconsider these indictments there were 8 votes in the affirmative, leaving but ten in favor of the indictments standing without reconsideration. W. J. Bodenhamer, convicted of embezzlement and of larceny while a resident of Missouri, had been subpoenaed as a witness, but was not present, so a recess was taken until 11:30, when he was put upon the stand. He was a member of the grand jury, and from all reports was the most officious man in the body, and did more work toward returning the indictments than did any other. He testified that he had been convicted of embezzling public funds while an officer in the United States Land Office in Missouri, for which crime he was convicted. He was also sentenced for larceny from a dwelling, and was discharged for good behavior after serving three-fourths of his term. He was present in the juryroom when the indictments were found against Seymour, Booth and Katz.

The District Attorney said that he was satisfied the witness (Bodenhamer) was disqualified and these three cases could not hold.

Judge Otis, speaking for the two sitting in bank, said: "The indictments are quashed, the defendants discharged, and fully exonerated, and their bonds released."

Although this applies only to the indictments against these three it is certain that motions will be made in several other cases and the indictments quashed in the same way, and upon the same grounds.

The interest in these proceedings has wrought the citizens up to a high state of excitement and the feeling against Bodenhamer is most bitter. The feeling against the whole grand jury system is also very pronounced.

It is said that Sheriff Booth, who has had nothing to say, pending the action, since the findings of the grand jury, will make a statement soon, showing up the methods employed by some of the proceedings of the late grand jury.

MURKIN WILL NOT HANG.

Judge Murphy's Recommendation Determines the Governor on Commutation.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 25.—(By the Associated Press.) Judge Markham had commuted the sentence of John McNulty from death to imprisonment for life. The Associated Press representative saw Gov. Markham's private secretary, Higgins, who, with the authorization of the Governor, gave out the following facts for publication.

At Gov. Markham's request, Judge Murphy, who passed sentence of death upon McNulty, came to Sacramento. McNulty's lawyer, Carroll Cook, and the Daughters of the Good Shepherd, who have been working in behalf of the condemned man, had represented to the Governor that Judge Murphy was utterly opposed to commutation. This Judge Murphy emphatically denied, saying that he did not sign the petition for commutation as urged because the petition contained untruthful and garbled statements. After a two-hours consultation, during which Judge Murphy recommended that the Governor, Markham issued the papers which saved McNulty's neck.

BOND PROCEEDS.

Secretary Carlisle Defines His Authority Before the Judiciary Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(By the Associated Press.) The House Judiciary Committee today considered the question of a new bond issue as involved in Representative Bailey's resolution that the Secretary of the Treasury has no authority to apply the proceeds of bonds for any purpose except redemption. Secretary Carlisle was present and spoke in an informal way. He held that the law conferred on him authority to issue bonds. A deficit of $30,000,000 would exist at the end of the fiscal year unless Congress gave relief to the treasury.

In answer to a question by Mr. Bailey, Carlisle maintained he had the right to use the proceeds of bonds for other purposes than redemption as he could expend the last dollar in the treasury, provided it was not otherwise appropriated. He had the power to sell more bonds if the treasury was in need of money to borrow money. In reply to a question by Mr. Ray of New York Secretary Carlisle said it would undoubtedly embarrass the treasury if the committee should declare he had no right to use bonds to pay current expenses.

It is believed that all Republican members and Messrs. Bailey, Boatner and Dearmond (Dem.) favor the Bailey resolution.

Death of L. A. Vignes.

L. A. Vignes died at 2 o'clock this (Friday) morning, at the residence of his brother, Deputy Sheriff H. L. Vignes, at No. 317 East Third street.

BOSTON'S DEATH RATE.

It is High Because of the Prevalence of Pneumonia.

(Boston Herald.) Although the figures relating to Boston's mortality for the past year have not been officially promulgated, it may be stated that the deaths during the year numbered 11,710, compared with 11,236 in 1892. Reckoning the population of the city at 487,397, this would make the death rate for the year 24.02 to each 1000 inhabitants, against 23.92 for the previous year. The larger number of deaths are accounted for by the prevalence of pneumonia, the total excess of deaths from all causes being 474, and the excess from pneumonia over those of the previous year for the same cause being 417. The prevalence of this disease and the mortality resulting from it constitute by far the most serious obstacle to the attainment of a smaller death rate in Boston. The climate will have to be held largely responsible for this state of things.

Tonight, Rev. Selah W. Brown on "Dixie Land," at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, South, on Broadway. An evening of instruction and amusement combined. The Santa Barbara Independent says: "When Mr. Brown came on the platform of the opera-house last evening he must have felt compelled to give the great sea of faces turned toward him. Over one thousand persons greeted him with enthusiastic applause. It was the acme of welcome. And it was all the more deserved, as it was the fifteenth time he had lectured in Santa Barbara. Mr. Brown's theme was 'The Great South,' and certainly it was the grandest lecture we have ever heard in this city."

COURT RECORD.

FOUND GUILTY.

Arthur Stewart is Convicted of Embezzlement.

It is Believed That He Will Plead for a Light Sentence and Not Appeal—Fonda Goes Free—Court Notes—Calendar.

The jury in the Arthur I. Stewart case reached an agreement at noon yesterday, finding the defendant guilty as charged. When the twelve men who had listened to the evidence against the young defaulter for three days failed to bring in their verdict after being out five hours Wednesday, and were locked up for the night, both the counsel for the defense and prosecution would have been willing to wager that a mistrial would be the result. After being out all night the jury seemed no nearer to reaching a decision, and at 10 o'clock yesterday morning were brought before the court and given further instructions. Two hours later they announced that they had at last arrived at an understanding. They were asked what the verdict was, and the reply was given, "Guilty as charged."

It is not thought that an appeal will be taken, but rather that the defendant will throw himself upon the mercy of the court and plead for a light sentence.

THE FEDERAL COURTS.

The Marshal having made return on the regular venire issued, the following were yesterday selected in the District Court to serve as Federal term trial jurors: J. H. Benham, S. G. Bonnell, James Booth, C. A. Leighton, J. G. de Turk and C. R. Davidson.

In the matter of the demurrer to the indictment in the D. F. Armstrong case Judge Armstrong decided that the same be sustained and that Armstrong be discharged from custody, as the indictment was not sufficient in its allegations.

WONDERFUL CURES!

To the Sick and Suffering: Four months ago I was taken down with the "grippe" and not receiving any benefit from a score of doctors, came to Dr. Hong Soi. His treatment was a surprise to me, as from the very first dose of his medicines he gave me I began to improve, and am now, after two weeks' treatment, as well as I ever was in my life. I had a painful and very racking cough, also severe pains in the head and eyes; stomach, liver and kidneys in very bad condition, and blood very thin. I now feel thoroughly healthy and well, and freely recommend Dr. Hong Soi to the sick and suffering.

I have been sick for nearly two years, suffering great pain in stomach and back, and never received any relief from the many physicians whom I consulted until I visited Dr. Hong Soi, who told me that I was suffering from kidney and lung trouble. I took his medicine and in three weeks was entirely cured.

For seven months I have been ailing with a pain in my stomach and back, and have doctored with a number of doctors who could not locate my disease. I went to Dr. Hong Soi about six weeks ago. I have been treating with him about three weeks and now I am cured and going to Montana.
